
aie-st-app

Release 2022.11.17

Bayer

Nov 17, 2022

CONTENTS:

1	Notes for DevOps Team	1
2	Application Description	2
2.1	Business Case	2
3	Release	3
3.1	release number	3
3.2	special remarks to integration teams	3
3.3	know issues	3
4	Installation Guide	4
4.1	Build Docker Image	4
4.2	Data files	4
5	Dependencies	5
5.1	External dependencies	5
5.2	Internal dependencies	5
6	Configuration	6
7	Run	7
8	User Acceptance Tests	8
9	Testing	9
10	Change Log	10
11	Indices and tables	11

NOTES FOR DEVOPS TEAM

- Name of the application:
- Latest Wheel version:
- Repository URL:
- Python version:
- Developer:
- Developer Contact Information:
- Notes:

APPLICATION DESCRIPTION

2.1 Business Case

RELEASE

3.1 release number

The release number is :

2022.11.17

This value will be referenced as <release> in this document.

It was generated from <https://gitlab.bayer.com/ai-enablement/aie-st-app/> repository, from git_sha1 :

sorry, this release document was not generated from a git repo, cannot get sha1

3.2 special remarks to integration teams

this is the first official release

3.3 know issues

INSTALLATION GUIDE

4.1 Build Docker Image

Explanation of how to build the docker image if required.

4.2 Data files

Explanation of the required data files.

DEPENDENCIES

5.1 External dependencies

All requirements are specified in the dockerfile.

5.2 Internal dependencies

This product depends on...

CONFIGURATION

The configuration shall be captured in a single yaml file.

RUN

Explanation how the application can be started locally.

```
streamlit run aie-st-app/main.py
```

USER ACCEPTANCE TESTS

TESTING

The code in the app was written by AI Enablement and constantly modified. the app serves as demonstration for developers to adjust their repositories and align with the AI Enablement to optimize the deployment process.

CHANGE LOG

- 2022-10-26
initial setup
- 2022-11-15
implementation delivery sheets

INDICES AND TABLES

- `genindex`
- `modindex`
- `search`